Mole Creek and Mersey River Photo
Tour

Nine members gathered at local identity, John Dare's home at Mole Creek on Sunday 27th November for a tour of the local countryside. On request from the club for a tour of the Mole Creek area, John had developed a route and checked out the route after heavy rain and flooding in the area during October and November.

We car-pooled into three cars with John leading the way with President Steve, Shane Westley, and Denise Wilson advising where to stop for photos.

Along the way we stopped at Lake Parangana and Arm River Bridge. The bright lichen gravel on the banks of the river was a spectacular photo opportunity. The native bush and flowers attracted the attention of Sue Griffiths and Ian Douglas.

Onwards to the Mersey White Water Forest Reserve. Low water flows and no kayakers meant we had to imagine what it would have been like in full flow. We may have a chance to go back when the kayakers are competing.

Last port of call was lake Rowallan and the Lake Rowallan Dam. Before us was Lake Rowallan with the dead trees poking up from the water and the Western Tiers in the background. We were treated to a demonstration of using filters for scenic photography by Steve Whitworth and Shane Westley.

Then we headed back to John Dare's home for refreshments, bbq lunch and a chat. It had been a wonderful day.

Our tour leader, John Dare's contribution to the success of the day was exceptional. John came up with route after driving around the area, he checked it out after serious flooding, led the group around the route, and hosted the party to an end of trip BBQ at his place with him as cook. Thank you, John, for a superb effort. The Club is most grateful.
